Covid update:

So far so good, we have not had any major setbacks, a few small scares here and there, but as a whole, we have remained safe and sound. This has been no small effort on behalf of a fantastic operations team. Hats off to the entire team.

We continue to push toward a paper free environment, removing requirements to sign delivery receipts last month and encouraging customers to use email and EDI invoice options.

With some hard work and some good fortune, we have equipped all our staff with face masks, hand sanitizers and gloves. This is allowing us to continue service and keep our team safe.

Much training has been put forth for our drivers as they are interacting with many clients on a day to day basis. They have been able to socially distance and feel comfortable with the precautions we have requested and continue to deliver.

Wishing you all safety and a return to “normal”.

All the best
